

DECEPTIONS:
Some Thoughts about Human Survival

As acres of wildlife become prime property & battles across the world increase millions starve as some feast & merchants of death
dance for prosperity
"How long can we haägendaaaaz like this?"
I wonder
. . . yet . . .
to those firmly glued to TV sets or hi-resolution computer screens such questions elicit yawns
Will our population wake up in time
before a cataclysm dawns?

- T Newfields

Begun: 1987 in Nagoya, Japan ≙ Finished: 2017 in New Taipei, Taiwan

Terri: I dunno. In every age there've been prophets of doom, but somehow humanity survives.

Tim: Survival is just part of the issue.

Kris: We've got to achieve a higher standard.

Sam: (shrugging his shoulders) Who needs altruistic head trips? Most people only care bout dare own asses.

Tim: The whole planet is part of our ass.