

WHITMAN MEMORIAL: Homage to an American Sage

Tim: Whitman was more than a poet – he was a cultural icon.

Ted: Of what?

Tim: Of individualism.

Kris: Yeah man – he was the Allen Ginsberg of the 19th Century.

Terri: You could say that. Or perhaps Ginsberg was the Whitman of a century later?

Tim: (shrugging his shoulders) Whatever. . . Rhetoric has no end, but human life is short.

Sam: (waving good-bye) So is this conversation.

– T Newfields

Begun: 2007 in Tokyo, Japan Finished: 2020 in Yokohama, Japan

