

WHEN THE LOTUS SINGS:

A textual pastiche & celebration

Bhäraté: (sighing) It is refreshing to find words free of meaning...

Chariya: (responding in sign language) Yeah. Too much "meaning" creates a sort of a sort of intellectual strait-jacket, doesn't it?

Daiki: (scratching his head) Straight or twisted - why fret about insignificant things?

- T Newfields

Begun: 2001 in Nagoya, Japan ≈ Finished: 2021 in Yokohama, Japan

