

THE LEGEND OF CHANGXI:

Reflections on the Role of Myth

Bhāraté: Changxi? I have no idea what that word means . . .

An-Yi: Not surprising. Most people outside the Sinosphere know so little about China.

Bhāraté: I barely know about my own country. It's even harder to know about distant lands.

Daiki: Well, in the Internet age there are no distant lands.

Chariya: A wise person once said, "if you know yourself then you will understand everything in the cosmos."

Bhāraté: (chuckling) That's utter nonsense! Perhaps Changxi can explain?

- T Newfields

Begun: 2001 in Nagoya, Japan ≡ Finished: 2020 in Yokohama, Japan

