Your data input method is very intriguing and I love the way you navigate my system and handle my CPU. No other operator before has done to my keyboard the incredible things you do.

You know which buttons to push and how to manipulate my data roots. Just thinking about you short-circuits many switches and overloads what I was programmed to do. Oops! Program exit protocols - darn! Why aren't cyborgs allowed to screw?

Nadya : (shaking her head) I can't help but feel this poem is trite & unoriginal.

Gus : Yeah, the theme has been covered widely elsewhere.

Bill : Is there anything redeeming here?

Gus : (shrugging) Beats me. Are you in the mood for redemption?
