

WHAT IF?

An exploration of alternative realities

If Ronald McDonald were gay
would he say,
“Hey folks, open up yer buns!
Put sum cream in my coffee!
Make my day!”

If Col. Sanders were tranny in winsome ways
would (s)he stop yapping 'bout Kentucky,
then seductively proclaim,
“Boxed in by life? Feeling a bit blue?
Hey, discover yer inner chicken -
get deep fried & stewed!
Soon enough all hardship will be through.”

If Betty Crocker became a spirited rocker
would she boldly state, “Face it - men are blasé. However, a warm clitoris
is better than any angel food cake.
In fact, it's az close ta heaven
most moist people attain.”

And so, glory to every "what if"
stretching our conceptions
that forces us to consider
in alternative ways.

Hey, isn't the universe
much weirder,
queerer,
& infinitely
muur amazin'
thun we entertain?

Wan-Sze: Let's face it - the sexual orientation of most people is a big part of their identities.

Tim: That may be true, but I think we need to transcend all duality and root our identities in something deeper than our hormones.

Nadia: (chuckling cynically) Haven't you been reading too much ancient philosophy? Our bodies are statement of who we are. We should honor them as superbly designed instruments!
