

TO BE GERMAN:

Some Thoughts about National Identity

Tell me -

What does it mean to be German?

Must I speak the language of Goethe or enjoy Wagner and Bach?

Should I sing "Einigkeit und Recht und Freiheit" with fervor or feel ecstatic each time a German football team achieves a goal?

Must I believe that spanferkel is mouth-watering or that beer is the best invention to date?

Should I confront the word "holocaust" personally or believe "European integration" is a matter of fate?

Must I understand why November 9 is important & be familiar with all sixteen federal states?

Should I feel Caspar David Friedrich stands on par with Raphael & describe how Dr. Caligari was great?

Could I be indifferent to these?
and yet still be «Deutschtum» entirely?

To be German
what is required of me?

Anya: Hmm. Adolph Hitler claimed to be the last true German.

Devani: (shaking her head) That man was warped – there was too much hatred in his heart.

Carlos: In more ways than I prefer to acknowledge, I'm afraid that all of us are warped.
